Secretary Farley of the Commission secured from the Philadelphia and Reading Coal & Iron company and from Pease, Pease & Kerr, the shippers of the coal, copies of the original bills of lading showing the exact number of tons put in the barges for shipment to the W. THE BORAH TRIAL.

So Far Senator's Name Not Connected With Alleged Frauds.

Boise, Idaho, Oct. 1.—When the second week of the trial of Senator Borah, charged with complicity in Idaho land frauds, began yesterday before Federal Judge Whitson, the government attorneys were still confronted with the task of connecting the defendant on trial with the alleged unlawful combination. During the first six days of the trial the name of Senator Borah was seldom heard, and the evidence adduced in behalf of the United States had to do mainly with the activities of former Gov. Frank Steunenberg.

As far as the evidence has gone, it has been admitted without any objection on the part of the defense, on the promise of the prosecuting attorneys eventually to connect Senator Borah with the alleged conspiracy. Senator Borah's counsel have adopted the general policy of not cross-examining any of the witnesses who confine their testimony to the alleged conspiracy between Steunenberg, Wells, Kincaid and others.

NO MILK FOR BOSTON.
Massachusetts Farmers Bolt—Predicted Vermont Will Get Milk Trade.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 1.—By an almost unanimous vote yesterday two hundred farmers of central Massachusetts at a meeting here, voted not to send milk to Boston contractors for the next six months at less than 40 cents per can. Angered at the action of the farmers, W. A. Hunter, clerk of the association, ridiculed the vote and predicted that the action of the producers would not only take future trade away from them but that the Boston market would be controlled by Vermont milkmen. "Hood & Whiting, our representatives, have signed contracts with 90 per cent. of the Green Mountain State farmers," declared Hunter "and in less than a week their product will be dealt in exclusively within the city limits of Boston. The action of this meeting is not against Boston milk contractors, but against yourselves and Vermont will profit by it." The vote, however, stood as cast.

WHITE'S HEARING OCTOBER 5.

Another Arrest Made in Connection With Death of Angelo Turzi.

Rutland, Oct. 1.—F. D. White of Mount Holly, a section hand, who was arrested Saturday on suspicion of having murdered Angelo Turzi, whose dead body was found in some bushes at the roadside Friday, will have a hearing October 5.

Late yesterday William Lane, alias William Lucan, who is said to be one of the last men seen with Turzi before the latter's death, and who later disappeared, appeared in Rutland yesterday and gave himself up to the officers. He was arraigned before Justice B. H. Stickney charged with being an accessory to White in the murder of Turzi and his case was continued until Saturday. The man was locked up in the county jail. At the time the murder is supposed to have occurred there was an intoxication variant out for Lane.

The result of Saturday's autopsy was kept secret, some of Turzi's vitals having been taken to the state laboratory at Burlington for examination. It is the belief of the officers that Turzi was murdered while he was on his way from Mount Holly to Shrewsbury and his body was found in a bush where it decomposed badly before discovery of the crime was made. Robbery is the only known motive for the crime as money known to have been in Turzi's possession on the day of his death was missing when his body was found.

CASE FIRST

Will be Taken Up by Supreme Court

THREE DECISIONS TODAY

Court Sets Aside the Verdict in Case of Eugene Kailey, Who Had Been Awarded $67,000 in County Court.

Montpelier, Oct. 1.—The October term of supreme court opened this morning at 10 o'clock with all the judges present and Chief Judge J. W. Rowell presiding. Between 50 and 60 attorneys from all over the state were in attendance at the opening. Prayer was offered by the Rev. A. J. Hough of this city and the opening of the court was proclaimed by John M. Tyler, Assistant Clerk E. M. Harvey read the calendar. There are 17 cases on the calendar and three decisions rendered. It is expected that in two weeks the regular calendar will be finished up.

The first case on the calendar which will be heard is that of State vs. J. M. Ryder, a Windham county malpractice case. This case was just opened on account of the attorney for the defendant, J. H. Senter, being unable to be present to represent the case.

The first case in which the decision was rendered was a Caledonia county case of Joseph A. Drun vs. Henry E. Wilson. This case was the result of breaking of a window in a store rented by the defendant and in the county court the plaintiff received a verdict to recover $15.00 and costs. The case then went to the supreme court on exceptions.

The next case decided was an Orleans county case of W. C. Sheldon vs. J. S. Wright in which the plaintiff sued the defendant for damages for negligent work in setting the plaintiff's fractured leg, the leg being made shorter and the foot deformed. In county court the plaintiff received judgment for $411.25 and the judgment was affirmed.

The third case was the case of Eugene Kailey vs. the Rutland railroad in which the plaintiff received a verdict in county court for $6,708.33 damages. This case was a suit for damages for injuries received by the plaintiff at North Dorset while performing his duties as brakeman. He was injured while boarding a moving train by a rung in a ladder which went up the side of the car breaking.

The last case in which a decision was rendered today was that of John Trow, administrator, vs. a preferred accident insurance company. In county court the plaintiff was awarded $930 and the case went to supreme court on exceptions.

This case was the one relating to the accident insurance carried by Joe Ward of the contracting firm of Ward & Douglas, who was killed at Mt. Holly, in November, 1902. Mr. Ward with others was inspecting the bridge, when the train started up and Ward's head was run into the river. He had been under the train, when he was supposed to have been inside, and the start was made without warning. The insurance company contested payment because in his application it was stated he was an office man. The court's decision allows the administrator to recover the insurance.

Montpelier, Oct. 1.—Fourteen of the 18 milkmen furnishing milk in this city met last night at the office of Chief Officer Lindsay to discuss the new milk ordinance which they considered too stringent. Some declared they would send their milk to Boston and not try to follow the regulations, but after a long discussion a disposition was shown to form a milkmen's organization, establish a central milk depot where all milk should be delivered and tested daily, and then distributed about the city by four teams instead of 18, as at present. Mayor Haley and City Attorney Carleton attended the conference, and promised the milkmen efficient time in which to prepare for carrying out the requirements of the ordinance.

"SWEET KITTY" PLEASES.

Fine Presentation of One of Belasco's Latest.

The "Sweet Kitty Bellairs" company, which played at the opera house last evening, has not been overestimated in any way, and the production which was given last evening was one of the finest ever seen in this city. The play, which hinges around the fact that a woman placed herself in a false position for the sake of the man she loves, is not by any means an original idea, but the way that Belasco has brought the story to the usual happy ending shows that artistic handling of which he is ever capable. The work of Miss Fanchon Campbell as "Kitty Bellairs" was of the highest order from an artistic standpoint, delineating in a charming manner the coquettish ways of a pretty Irish widow in the high society of England late in the eighteenth century. The surrounding characters of the play were particularly well taken, especially noteworthy being the work of Harold Mead as Col. Villiers, who has an extremely good idea of the way in which an officer and gentleman should act when he reaches that stage at which an ordinary man would be called drunk. Hugh Wallace as Lord Verney, lieutenant, made an excellent lover, who developed from extreme bashfulness to the greatest boldness, while Jack Webster as Sir Jasper Standish, Miss Bertha Carlyle as Lady Bab Flyte and Hodgson Taylor as Captain Taylor were appreciated in their parts. The costumes and special scenery were of the finest ever seen in this city, there being not a single apparent deviation from the exact reproduction of the uniforms and dresses of the time.

There are also black spots between the eyes.

COUNCIL HAS BRIEF SESSION

Several Minor Matters Receive Consideration

STREET LIGHT ASKED FOR

Shall Stone Sheds Near Railroad Tracks Have Fireproof Roofs?—Joseph Calicagni Wants City to Care For Its Water in Streets.

The city council held their regular weekly meeting last evening instead of this evening. Outside of the ordering of the payments of the warrants for the weekly pay roll there was but little business of importance transacted. The fire committee recommended that a hydrant be installed at the intersection of Long and Warren streets.

A report from the city assessors to which was referred the matter of W. H. Clough's tax inventory. The report stated that they had looked over the inventory and could find no mistake. On motion of Alderman Ladd the report was accepted.

The report from the street committee and the engineer was read, giving the numbers which have been placed on the houses on Blackwell, James, John and Thomas streets at the request of the residents.

The street committee reported in regard to John Broderick's sewer assessment that he had been over assessed and that his right assessment should have been on 118 feet.

A petition for an ar light at the corner of Camp and Tremont streets was read on motion of Alderman Ladd was referred to the lighting committee to investigate and report.

The building inspector reported in regard to L. J. Bolter's request for a permit to re-shingle the stone shed occupied by Bond & Kilder that as the shed was so near the railroad tracks he would recommend fire proof material be put onto the roof instead of shingles. Alderman Williams stated that the inspector had previously recommended shingles for another shed right near by and he did not see any more need for fire proof material on one than another. On motion of Alderman Williams the report was referred to the fire committee and the inspector with power to act.

Joseph Calicagni appeared before the council and stated that the water when it rained ran off from Blackwell and Branch streets directly across his land and left a great quantity of mud and refuse on his property. Alderman McNulty and Thurston stated that the circumstances were as had been stated and that the only way it could be remedied was to put in a surface sewer. The matter was referred to the street committee and the city engineer.

Alderman Cutler stated that he had spoken with Lyon and Carleton in regard to removing their hen house from the land the city had leased to them and that they had promised to have it moved by Monday afternoon. The council then adjourned.
